CONDITIONS OF ARMISTICE ARE ANNOUNCED

SOLDIERS' COUNCIL FORMED AT FRONT BY GERMAN ARMY

Representatives To Meet Von Hindenburg And Give Conditions

PASSES QUIETLY

Troops Stationed In Warsaw Meet And Form Similar Council

NORMAL IN BERLIN

Railway Traffic Being Resumed And Towns Get Food Supplies

(French Wireless)
Koukaza, Shanghai, November 13.—The following message from Nauen has been picked up: Berlin, November 11.—Main headquarters communicates the following to the Soldiers' Council at Hamburg: A Soldiers' Council has also been formed at the front. Its formation passed by quietly. The Soldiers' Council will place itself in connection with Field Marshal von Hindenburg and lay before him the conditions.

In connection with the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council there was constituted on November 10 in the Reichstag a "Council of Intellectual Workers" which will labor for the cultural and political ideals based on the foundation of a Socialist Republic.

Soldiers' Council In Warsaw
A Soldiers' Council was formed yesterday among the troop formations lying in Warsaw and the surrounding districts which came in touch with each other and held a meeting in the Government building at six o'clock in the evening. A Lieutenant-Colonel appeared at the meeting as a member of the Polish Regency Council, which offered to be responsible for the safety of the German troops if certain conditions were fulfilled, including the delivering up of their arms. Lively opposition showed itself in the assembly against entering into negotiations with any political government in Poland. The representative of the Polish Regency Council was told that the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council would make no other effort than to observe full neutrality towards all political tendencies and as soon as possible to return home, not without securing the return of their comrades scattered throughout the country and standing in the Ukraine. There was unanimous opposition to the giving up of arms and it was emphasized that the German troops, in a compact body, represented a respectable force so that there was absolutely no occasion for a panic.

According to reports from all parts of Germany railway traffic is being gradually taken up again so that interruptions are only to be noticed on a few sections and only for a short time. The providing of food supplies in large towns has not suffered.

Lyons, November 12.—A message from Berlin to Basle states that the negotiations between the Majority and Minority Socialists has resulted in the formation of a common government. The bureau of the Minority Socialist Party has declared its willingness to enter the government on certain conditions. The delegates nominated by the Majority Socialist Party will probably be Herr Ebert, Brunsberg and Scheidemann.

More Kings Dethroned

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, November 11.—An official message from Berlin announces that the King of Saxony has been dethroned.
Basle, November 11.—A message from Darmstadt states that Hesse has been proclaimed a Republic.
Copenhagen, November 11.—A message from Hamburg states that the Grand Duke of Oldenburg has been dethroned.
The Hamburger Nachrichten states that the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg has abdicated and the Soviet has formed a new Government.

Herr Hohenzollern Und Frau Residing In Villa In Holland

German Formerly Well Known In Berlin Political Circles Is Seen At Station

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
The Hague, November 11.—The ex-Kaiser arrived this morning by special train at Eysden station, between Liege and Maastricht, to await a Dutch special train to take him to his residence, which is not yet known.

Copenhagen, November 11.—A message from Berlin states that the Kaiser, with his suite of ten persons, has taken up his residence at Comte Bentinck's villa at Arnhem.

London, November 11.—The Hague correspondent of the Daily Mail states that the Kaiser arrived at Eysden at 7:30 in the morning. He was wearing a uniform and was accompanied by the Crown Prince and Marshal von Hindenburg and practically all the General Staff. The Kaiser alighted and walked on the platform smoking a cigarette and chatting with his Staff and did not look the least distressed. The reception was quiet, only a few people being present. Ten motor cars flying the Imperial Eagle accompanied the Kaiser.

London, November 11, 7:55 a.m.—London, surfeited with sensations and aware of the imminence of victory, received the news of the abdication of the Kaiser on Saturday with comparative indifference but the downfall of the Hohenzollerns and their ignominious flight to Holland is the absorbing topic in the newspapers this morning.

The fate of Xerxes and Darius is recalled as parallel to a ruin more immense and sudden than Europe has ever witnessed. Columns are published of extracts from the brag and blasphemous utterances of the Kaiser and the hope is expressed that "this Imperial criminal" will not escape punishment for the misdeeds of the nation he misguided.

That the Kaiser is gone for ever is regarded as certain but it is pointed out that there is danger of a reaction in favor of Kaiserism if the German people through his disappearance escape the penalties for the crimes they applauded.

'THE LITTLE MERMAID' TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

First Performance Of Musical Fantasy At Lyceum Starts Peace Celebration

"The Little Mermaid," a three-act musical fantasy, will be produced by local amateurs at the Lyceum Theater tonight in aid of St. Dunstan's Home for Blind Soldiers and Sailors. Representatives of Allied nations will attend and the performance will be the first official celebration of the suspension of hostilities.

The production will be one of the most elaborate ever staged here. The book is after the fairytale, "The Little Mermaid," by Hans Christian Andersen, and is by Ruth Henry while Mr. de Luca wrote the music. Maestro Alberti will direct the orchestra.

The title role is in the hands of Mrs. Isenman and the other principal parts are handled by well known local amateurs. The splendid chorus has been trained by Maestro Alberti.

PROF. MASARYK ELECTED FIRST CZECH PRESIDENT

Will Leave Washington In Tonight To Take Up Office In Prague

(American Wireless To Reuter)
Washington, November 12.—(Received by French Wireless Station).—The Czech-Slovak Republic has begun its existence and the Czech-Slovak numbering 11,000,000, have thrown off the yoke of Austria and are free for the first time since 1620.
Thomas G. Masaryk, formerly professor of philosophy in the University of Prague and president of the Czech-Slovak National Council which the United States and the Allies recognized as the de facto government, has been chosen as the government's first president. He is in Washington. He was notified on Monday of his election by the Council, which urged him to proceed immediately to Prague and take up the formation of the new government. He will leave within a fortnight.

Telegraphs, Telephones And Railroads To Be Retained At Least For Present

(American Wireless To Reuter)
Washington, November 12.—(Received by French Wireless Station).—It was officially announced today that the railroads will continue under government control until twenty months after peace is officially declared unless Congress meanwhile enacts new legislation shortening this period or providing permanent federal direction. The Post Office Department simultaneously announced that government operation of the telegraph and telephone lines would continue at least for a year.
There will be no let-up in the activities of the War Industries Board, War Trade Board, Food Administration and Fuel Administration, at least until the President proclaims peace after its ratification by the Senate.
In Philadelphia Charles H. Schwab, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, announced that the signing of the armistice would not affect the government's shipbuilding program.

OUTPORTS GO STRONG IN WAR WORK PLEDGES

Big Subscriptions Promised By Tientsin And Nanking; Workers Here Meet Today At Carlton

Other points in China are leaving Shanghai far in the rear in the matter of pledges to the United War Work Fund and from indications the country at large will oversubscribe the $300,000 allotment by nearly 100 percent.

According to a telegram received by Consul-General Sammons from the chairman of the Peking Committee the sum of $250,000 was guaranteed for Chihli Province at a meeting attended by the Civil Governor, Allied representatives and Chinese citizens in Tientsin yesterday. According to word given out at headquarters here yesterday Nanking is promising $200,000, $150,000 of which is pledged by the Provincial assembly. Estimates of the returns in Shanghai to date were placed at $50,000 yesterday, the same amount being reported for Canton. The exact total here will be announced today.

The local fund was swelled during the day by a further pledge of $10,000 made by Puh-an College, of which Dr. T. H. Li, is president. Returns from personal solicitations and in response to the circular letters sent out continued to come into headquarters and the cash received there to date stands at $5,228.

There will be a meeting of all campaign workers at tiffin at the Carlton this noon when important matters will come up for discussion and reports will be made.

A mass meeting of representatives of all Chinese associations and guilds has been called by Mr. Chu Pao-shan, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, to take place at the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the matter of an energetic Chinese co-operation in the campaign will be discussed. On Saturday evening there will be a parade which will form in Tientsin Road at 6:30 o'clock and march to the Chinese City. Children of the various schools will march and there will be bands and decorated floats and vehicles bearing tableaux and messages of an educational nature in the interests of the War Work campaign. The arrangements for the parade are in the hands of Mr. P. K. Chu.

According to the original schedule there are but four more days to the drive and the workers at their meeting today will mobilize for an intensive program of work during the last days.

Americans Called On To Make Sacrifices To Feed Europeans

War-Torn Nations Depend On United States Till Next Harvest, Says Hoover

(American Wireless To Reuter)
Washington, November 12.—(Received by French Wireless Station).—Herbert C. Hoover, National Food Administrator, in an address today to the state food administrators, declared that the nation's obligation to serve stricken humanity in war-torn Europe until the next harvest will demand further sacrifices of the American people. "Conditions of famine exist in Europe, he said, such as will be a great test of our power to remedy them even with carrying out our plan to ship from America 20,000,000 tons of foodstuffs during the next year.

In Northern Russia alone there are 40,000,000 people who have little chance of obtaining food this winter and these, with millions of others throughout Europe, must be fed. North America will have to furnish 60 percent of the world's supply of foodstuffs and the United States and the West Indies will be expected to contribute 20,000,000 tons.

Peking Joyous Over Victory Of Allies

All Nationals, With Exception Of Japanese, Join In Celebrations

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, November 12.—There are great peace rejoicings in Peking, in which the Japanese up to the present have not been prominent.

The Diplomatic Corps have decided, in honor of the King of the Belgians, that a celebration peace mass at Peking Cathedral, also a peace service at the Y.M.C.A., at which all members of the Allied Legations will be present, will be held on Friday.

Sir John Jordan, the British Minister, today received the members of the Diplomatic Corps and other friends at the British Legation. In a touching speech, he eulogized the Allied countries, his remarks concerning the United States being especially happy. Tonight Sir John Jordan is entertaining a large, brilliant gathering at the British Legation.

Allies Will Occupy All Territory Up To Left Bank Of Rhine

Will Hold Cologne, Coblenz And Mayence And Forts; Germans Also Must Withdraw To Own Boundaries On East Front; Most Of Navy To Be Taken Over

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, November 11.—The following is the official text of the German armistice:

(A) Clauses relating to the Western front:
(1) Cessation of operations by land and in the air six hours after the signature of the armistice.
(2) Immediate evacuation of invaded countries, Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine and Luxembourg, so ordered as to be completed within fourteen days from the signature of the armistice. German troops which have not left the above mentioned will become prisoners of war. Occupation by the Allied and United States forces jointly will keep pace with the evacuation in these areas. All movements of evacuation and occupation will be regulated in accordance with a Note (Annexure 1).

(3) Repatriation, beginning at once, to be completed within fourteen days, of all inhabitants of the countries above mentioned, including hostages and persons under trial or convicted.
(4) Surrender in good condition by the German armies of the following equipment: 5,000 guns, (2,500 heavy and 2,500 field); 30,000 machine-guns, 3,000 minenwerfer, 2,000 aeroplanes (fighters, bombers and night bombing machines).

The above to be delivered in situ to the Allied and United States troops in accordance with the detailed conditions laid down in the Note (Annexure 1).

(5) Evacuation by the German armies of the countries on the left bank of the Rhine. These countries on the left bank of the Rhine shall be administered by the local authorities, under the control of the Allied and United States armies of occupation. The occupation of these territories will be carried out by Allied and United States garrisons, holding the principal crossings of the Rhine (Mayence, Coblenz and Cologne) together with bridgeheads at these points of a thirty kilometer radius on the right bank and by garrisons similarly holding the strategic points of the regions. A neutral zone shall be set up on the right bank of the Rhine between the river and a line drawn ten kilometers distant, starting from the Dutch frontier to the Swiss frontier. In the case of inhabitants, no person shall be prosecuted for having taken part in any military measures previous to the signing of the armistice. No measure of a general or official character shall be taken which would have as a consequence the depreciation of industrial establishments or a reduction of their personnel. Evacuation by the enemy of the Rhine lands shall be so ordered as to be completed within a further period of eleven days, in all twenty-five days after the signature of the armistice. All movements of evacuation and occupation will be regulated according to the Note (Annexure 1).

(6) In all territory evacuated by the enemy there shall be no evacuation of inhabitants; no damage or harm shall be done to the persons or property of the inhabitants; no destruction of any kind to be committed. Military establishments of all kinds shall be delivered intact as well as military stores of food, munitions, and equipment not removed during the periods fixed for evacuation. Food of all kinds for the civil population, cattle, etcetera, shall be left in situ. Industrial establishments shall not be impaired in any way and their personnel shall not be moved.

(7) Roads and means of communication of every kind, railroads, waterways, main roads, bridges, telegraphs, telephones shall be in no way impaired. All civil and military personnel at present employed on them shall remain. 5,000 locomotives, 150,000 wagons and 5,000 motor-jerries in good working order, with all necessary spare parts and fittings, shall be delivered to the Associated Powers within the period fixed for the evacuation of Belgium and Luxembourg. The railways of Alsace-Lorraine shall be handed over within the same period together with all pre-war personnel and material. Further, the material necessary for the working of the railways in the country on the left bank of the Rhine shall be left in situ. All stores of coal and material for the upkeep of the permanent way, signals, and repair-shops shall be left in situ and kept as far as the means of communication are concerned in an efficient state by Germany during the whole period of the armistice. All barges taken from the Allies shall be restored to them.

The Note appended as Annexure 11 regulates the detail of these measures.

(8) The German Command shall be responsible for revealing all mines or delay-action fuses disposed on territory evacuated by the German troops and shall assist in their discovery and destruction. The German Command shall also reveal all the destructive measures that may have been taken (such as the poisoning or pollution of springs, wells, etcetera) under penalty of reprisals.

Germans Must Feed Occupying Army
(9) The right of requisition shall be exercised by the Allied and United States armies in all the occupied territory; save for the settlement of accounts with authorized persons; the upkeep of the troops of occupation in the Rhine-land excluding Alsace-Lorraine shall be charged to the German Government.

(10) The immediate repatriation without reciprocity, according to detailed condition which shall be fixed, of all Allied and United States prisoners of war; the Allied Powers shall be able to dispose of these prisoners, as they wish. However, the return of German prisoners of war interned in Holland and Switzerland shall continue as heretofore. The return of German prisoners of war shall be settled at the peace preliminaries.

(11) Sick and wounded who cannot be removed from evacuated territory will be cared for by German personnel, who will be left on the spot with the medical material required.

(B) Clauses relating to the Eastern frontiers of Germany:
(12) All German troops at present in any territory, which before the war belonged to Russia, Rumania, or Turkey, shall withdraw within the frontiers of Germany, as they existed on August 1, 1914, and all German troops at present on territories which before the war formed part of Russia must likewise return to within the frontiers of Germany as above defined as soon as the Allies shall think the moment suitable, having regard to the internal situation of these territories.

(13) Evacuation by German troops to begin at once; and all German instructors, prisoners, and civilian as well as military agents, now on the territory of Russia (as defined on August 1, 1914) to be recalled.

(14) German troops to cease at once all requisitions and seizures, and any other undertakings with a view to obtaining supplies intended for Germany in Rumania and Russia, as defined on August 1, 1914.

Eastern Treaties Nullified
(15) Abandonment of the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk and of the supplementary treaties.

(16) The Allies shall have free access to the territories evacuated by the Germans on their Eastern frontier, either through Danzig, or by the Vistula, in order to convey supplies to the populations of those territories or for the purpose of maintaining order.

(C) Clause relating to East Africa.
(17) Unconditional evacuation of all German forces operating in East Africa within one month.

(D) General clauses:
(18) Repatriation, without reciprocity, within a maximum period of one month, in accordance with detailed conditions hereafter to be fixed, of all civilians interned or deported, who may be citizens of other Allied or Associated States than those mentioned in Clause 3.

(19) With the reservation that any future claims and demands of the Allies and United States of America remain unaffected, the following financial conditions are required:

Reparation for damage done:

While the armistice lasts, no public securities shall be removed by the enemy which can serve as a pledge to the Allies for the recovery or reparation for war losses.

Immediate restitution of the cash deposit in the National Bank of Belgium and in general, immediate return of all documents, specie, stock, shares and paper money, together with the plant for the issue thereof, touching public or private interests in the invaded countries.

Restitution of the Russian and Rumanian gold yielded to Germany or taken by that Power. This gold is to be delivered in trust to the Allies until the signature of peace.

Submarines to be handed over.

(20) Naval conditions:

Immediate cessation of all hostilities at sea and definite information to be given as to the location and movements of all German ships. Notification to be given to neutrals that freedom of navigation in all territorial waters is given to the naval and mercantile marines of the Allied and Associated Powers, all questions of neutrality being waived.

(21) All naval and mercantile marine prisoners of war of the Allied and Associated Powers in German hands to be returned, without reciprocity.

(22) In order to meet our wishes the text will be modified as follows:

Handing over to the Allies and the United States of all submarines, including all submarine cruisers and minelayers, which are present at the moment with full complement in the ports specified by the Allies and the United States. Those that cannot put to sea to be deprived of their crews and supplies and shall remain under the supervision of the Allies and the United States. Submarines ready to put to sea shall be prepared to leave German ports immediately on receipt of a wireless order to sail to the port of surrender. The remainder to follow as early as possible. The conditions of this article shall be carried out within fourteen days after the signing of the armistice.

Allies to hold warships

(23) The following German surface warships, which shall be designated by the Allies and the United States of America, shall forthwith be disarmed and thereafter interned in neutral ports, or failing them, in Allied ports, to be designated by the Allies and the United States of America, and placed under the surveillance of the Allies and the United States of America, only caretakers being left on board; namely, six battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers, including two minelayers, fifty destroyers of the most modern types. All other surface warships, including all submarines, are to be concentrated in German naval bases to be designated by the Allies and the United States of America, and are to be paid off and completely disarmed and placed under the supervision of the Allies and the United States of America. All vessels of the auxiliary fleet (trawlers, motor vessels, etcetera) are to be disarmed. All vessels specified for internment shall be ready to leave German ports seven days after the signing of the armistice. Directions for voyage will be given by wireless. A declaration has been signed by the Allied delegates and handed to the German delegates to the effect that in the event of ships not being handed over owing to the mutinous state of the fleet, the Allies reserve the right to occupy Heligoland as an advance base to enable them to enforce the terms of the armistice. The German delegates have on their part signed a declaration that they will recommend the Chancellor to accept this.

(24) The Allies and the United States of America shall have the right to sweep up all minelayers and obstructions laid by Germany outside German territorial waters, and the positions of these are to be indicated.

(25) Freedom of access to and from Baltic to be given to the naval and mercantile marines of the Allied and Associated Powers. To secure this, the Allies and the United States of America shall be empowered to occupy all German forts, fortifications, batteries and defense works of all kinds in all the entrances from the Cattegat into the Baltic, and to sweep up all mines and obstructions within and without German territorial waters without any questions of neutrality being raised, and the positions of all such mines and obstructions are to be indicated.

Allies to provision Germany

(26) The existing blockade conditions set up by the Allied and Associated Powers are to remain unchanged, and all German merchant ships found at sea shall remain liable to capture. The Allies and the United States contemplate the provisioning of Germany during the armistice as shall be found necessary.

(27) All naval aircraft are to be concentrated and immobilized in German bases to be specified by the Allies and the United States of America.

(28) In evacuating the Belgian coasts and ports, Germany shall abandon all merchant ships, tugs, lighters, cranes and all other harbor materials, all material for inland navigation, all aircraft and air materials and stores, all arms and armaments, and all stores and apparatus of all kinds.

(29) All Black Sea ports are to be evacuated by Germany; all Russian warships of all descriptions seized by Germany in the Black Sea are to be handed over to the Allies and the United States of America; all neutral merchant ships seized are to be released; all warlike and other materials of all kinds seized in those ports are to be returned and German materials as specified in Clause 28 are to be abandoned.

(30) All merchant ships in German hands belonging to the Allies and the Associated Powers are to be restored in ports to be specified by the Allies and the United States of America, without reciprocity.

(31) No destruction of ships or of

Jubilant Day In London As Surrender Is Learned

Ministers And Royalities Cheered By Crowds; Dramatic Scene In French Chamber Of Deputies

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, November 11.—The signing of the armistice was officially announced at 10:20 although an unofficial rumor to the same effect had gained currency a few minutes earlier. The news spread like wildfire and extraordinary scenes of enthusiasm, strongly mingled with expressions of thankfulness, were manifested throughout the country. The public was beside itself with joy. Bells pealed and maroons were fired by all the police and fire stations in celebration of the event.

London, November 11, 12:55 p.m.—There have been great scenes of excitement and joy in the streets of London. The Lord Mayor of London, wearing his gold chain of office and standing in the portico of the Mansion House, announced the signing of the armistice to a huge crowd. Scores of persons crammed the omnibuses halted in front of the Mansion House steps, those outside frantically waving flags. The National Anthem was sung with bared heads and then the hymn "Now thank we all our God." People were especially deeply moved and tears streamed down many faces.

There have been unparalleled scenes of enthusiasm in Downing Street.

The Premier appeared in a window with Mr. A. Bonar Law. Addressing the huge crowd, Mr. Lloyd George said: "You are entitled to rejoice. The people of Great Britain, their Allies, the Dominion and India have won a glorious victory. It was the sons and daughters of the people who won it and it is the most wonderful victory for liberty in the history of the world."

Mr. Balfour, walking across from the Foreign Office, was hemmed in by the cheering crowds, to whom he addressed a few words.

The most enthusiastic scenes continue everywhere. A veritable sea of people outside Buckingham Palace and along the Mall frantically cheered their Majesties, who appeared on the balcony of the Palace.

The King, addressing a great crowd from the balcony of Buckingham Palace, said: "With you I rejoice and thank God for the victories which the Allies have won, which have brought hostilities to an end and peace within sight."

Large cheering crowds surrounded the Duke of Cornwall and Prince Patricia, who were motoring along the Mall. Thousands crowded round the captured German guns, a hundred of which are being exhibited in the Mall and many of them were taken in procession with a dozen to twenty persons riding on each.

Whitehall, Downing Street and Trafalgar Square are also packed with people.

A body of Highlanders, returning from night duty at the Bank of England, headed a huge impromptu procession in the Strand. There was an unforgettable scene at No. 10 Downing Street, where, responding to terrific calls, the Premier, accompanied by Mr. Bonar Law and Mr. Winston Churchill, again appeared at the window and made a brief speech in which he paid a tribute to all who participated in the great victory including the Dominions, Colonies, Allies and munition workers. He concluded: "Let us thank God."

materials to be permitted before evacuation, surrender or restoration.

Neutral Agreements Off

(32) The German Government shall formally notify the neutral governments of the world, and particularly the Governments of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, that all restrictions placed on the trading of their vessels with the Allied and Associated countries, whether by the German Government or by private German interests, and whether in return for specific concessions such as the export of ship-building materials or not, are immediately cancelled.

(33) No transfers of German merchant shipping of any description to any neutral flag are to take place after signature of the armistice.

Armistice Lasts 36 Days

(F) Duration of the armistice: (34) The duration of the armistice is to be thirty-six days, with the option to extend. During this period, on failure of execution of any of the above clauses, the armistice may be denounced by one of the contracting parties, on forty-eight hours previous notice.

(G) Time limit for reply:

(35) This armistice to be accepted or refused by Germany within seventy-two hours of notification.

Berlin Announces

London, November 11.—By wireless. A German official communique announced:

The armistice was signed at five this morning and operates from 11 o'clock this morning, November 11.

The crowd waved Union Jacks and hats, and cheered for a long time.

REJOICING IN PARIS

(French Wireless)

Lyons, November 12.—During the meeting of the Chamber of Deputies on Monday, M. Clemenceau read the conditions of the armistice concluded with Germany. Then, in the midst of general enthusiasm, he gave the salute of France, united and indivisible, to Alsace and Lorraine recovered, and paid homage to the great dead, who had made this history, as well as to the living, who have liberated France. He concluded, "Thanks to them, France yesterday was the soldier of God, today she is the soldier of Humanity and she will always be the soldier of the Ideal."

M. Deschanel, who followed, greeted the return of Alsace and Lorraine to France who respects their traditions, their customs, their liberties, their beliefs and who bring to her all their glory. The President of the Chamber then conjured up the remembrance of the fighters of 1870, who saved the future, and also saluted the sublime fighters of the great war, who, with superhuman courage, have made the liberation of Alsace-Lorraine the prelude of a very high order.

Finally the Socialist Deputy, M. Albert Thomas, asked that the deputies of Alsace-Lorraine in the Chamber should have the honors of the sitting. The Abbe Wetterle and M. Georges Weill, lately deputies in the Reichstag, were then saluted by the unanimous applause of the Chamber and the meeting was concluded by the deputies singing the Marseillaise, which was repeated by the whole of the spectators.

ENTHUSIASM IN TRIESTE

The Italian Consulate General in Shanghai has received the following message dated Rome, November 10: The representatives of all the communities of Istria have gathered at Trieste where they were received by Governor General Pettiti.

There was a renewed imposing procession formed at the national altar facing San Giusto, where the bersaglieri deposited all the captured arms from the enemy.

Enthusiasm continues to reign all over Italy. In the redeemed zone and all over Dalmatia. Amongst the captured booty are more than three thousand wagons and one hundred locomotives.

Signor Orlando arrived on the war zone and crossed the liberated territories amidst acclamations of the freed population.

The bersaglieri entered Capodistria on November 4.

The Members of the Parliament for the Trenta and Trieste territories have arrived in Rome with a view to arrange for the liberation of one hundred thousand inhabitants of the freed territories.

The 2nd of November has been declared a national holiday.

H. M. the King entered Trieste where he was heartily acclaimed.

DINNERS AND DANCES MAKE NIGHT GAY HERE

French Club, Astor House And Other Places Hold Happy Crowds

The most enthusiastic celebration gathering of yesterday occurred at the French Club where members and their friends assembled for a dinner and dance last evening. The banquet was an animated affair and the dancing continued until a late hour. The Allied national anthems were played and sung and the reading of late despatches on the armistice terms was greeted with cheers.

The Astor House ball room, bright with Allied bunting, was crowded last night for another special celebration dinner and dance. Fully 250 people sat down for the dinner and still others flocked in during the course of the evening. Patriotic airs were plentifully interspersed in the dance program and the general atmosphere of celebration was maintained throughout. The Astor is giving a "Victory" dinner and ball Saturday night. There will also be a celebration dinner-dance at the Kales Hotel tomorrow evening.

The spirit of celebration and the spirit of charity by a spontaneous combination produced the sum of $1,900 for Red Cross funds in a very few minutes during the peace rejoicings at the crowded Carlton Cafe Tuesday night.

It all started when little Miss Cross, aged 7 or 8, began giving out Allied flags to the animated throng which filled the Carlton's downstairs dining room. She had barely got started in her distribution of the banners when she found herself bewildered, custodian of some $150 in bank notes. Somebody suggested that it be made $200 for war charities and the amount leaped to $300 almost before the suggestor had ceased speaking. The fever spread and Mrs. Brock created an enthusiastic uproar by offering a bracelet she was wearing for auction.

United States Court For China

Judah I. Ezra, Plaintiff.
vs.
W. L. Merriman,
Defendant.

Cause No. 781
Civil No. 226
ORDER
Filed at Shanghai, China,
November 13, 1918.
William A. Chapman,
Acting Clerk.

Allison D. Gibbs, Esquire, for plaintiff.
Messrs. Jernigan, Fessenden and Rose for defendant.

The following rulings on recent motions by counsel in the case of Mr. J. I. Ezra vs. Mr. W. L. Merriman were handed down by Judge C.
S. Loblagier in the United States
Court for China yesterday:

The petition here was filed on November 1 and three days later the plaintiff presented a motion to have the defendant's deposition taken before the Court. The motion is based upon a provision of the Act of Congress providing civil laws for Alaska and authorizing the taking of a deposition "at any time after the service of the summons * * * when the witness is a party to the action etc." That section forms part of the evidence provisions of the Alaska Code and constitutes one of three distinct enactments by Congress on the subject of taking depositions.
The first was passed at the very foundation of the Government and has ever since controlled the practice of the federal courts in such matters. The second was an act relating to Alaska, above mentioned,
and the last was an act applying primarily to the District of Columbia.

In applying federal statutes in this jurisdiction, the general have always prevailed over the special.
As this Court said in a recent decision: "Where a general act of Congress * * * is applicable it will be applied in preference to an act intended for a limited locality." So the Court of Appeals in the leading case on the subject only applied the special acts for Alaska and the District of Columbia after it had found that "there is no general statute applicable." Of course where the general act is deficient or where the special act is merely supplementary it often happens that both may be applied. But this is possible only where there is no conflict between the two for in such a case the general act must necessarily prevail.

It is contended indeed that the statute here invoked is not inconsistent with the general federal law
governing the taking of depositions.
But unfortunately for that contention
the Supreme Court has already decided otherwise. In a case removed from the state courts of New York to the Federal Circuit Court plaintiff sought to invoke a state statute similar to but less drastic than this for it was only intended to take the deposition of defendant before trial and not before answer.
The Supreme Court in granting a writ of habeas corpus to the defendant, who had been committed for contempt in failing to obey the circuit court's order to give his deposition, quoted the principal sections of the general law above referred to and said:

"No one can examine these provisions for procuring testimony to be used in the Courts of the United States and have any reasonable doubt that, so far as they apply,
they were intended to provide a system to govern the practice, in that respect, in those courts. They are, in the first place, too complete, too far-reaching and too minute to admit of any other conclusion. But we have not only this inference from the character of the legislation,
but it is enforced by the express language of the law in providing a defined mode of proof in those courts, and in specifying the only exceptions to that mode which shall be admitted."

"This mode is by oral testimony
and examination of witnesses in open court, except as hereinafter provided."

After noting the exceptions to this general practice the court continued:

"These are the exceptions which the statute provides to its positive rule that the mode of trial in actions
at law shall be by oral testimony
and examination of witnesses in open court. They are the only exceptions thereafter provided. Does the rule admit of others? Can its language be so construed?"

"On the contrary, its purpose is clear to provide a mode of proof in trials at law to the exclusion of all other modes of proof; and because the rigidity of the rule may, in some cases, work a hardship, it makes exceptions of such cases as it recognizes to be entitled to another rule, and it provides that rule for those cases. Under one or the other, all cases must come. Every action at law in a Court of the United States must be governed by the rule, or by the exceptions which the statute provides. There is no place for exceptions made by state statutes. The court is not at liberty to adopt them, or to require a party to conform to them. It has no power to subject a party to such an examination as this. Not only is no such power conferred, but it is prohibited by the plain language and the equally plain purpose of the Acts of Congress, and especially the chapter on Evidence of the Revision."

We do not think this decision any less pertinent because the statute there in question had been passed by a state legislature nor because the one here invoked was enacted after the decision was rendered. The principle announced therein seems to us equally applicable here and if the state statute there invoked was so repugnant to the prescribed practice of the federal courts that the latter could not apply it we must conclude that they would be equally inhibited
from applying the statute here relied upon even though it is authorized in the territorial courts of Alaska. In other words the conclusion seems irresistibly to follow that if an exclusively federal court like this were established in course be interpreted here from the standpoint of this Court whose jurisdiction covers the territory of China which is, therefore, not foreign to it.

Stress is laid in plaintiff's argument upon the restrictions of the general act as regards the officers who may take depositions de bene esse. But in construing extended legislation it is a fundamental rule that a law is not inoperative merely because officers of the same title are not found in the region to which the extension is proposed.
It is sufficient if there are corresponding officers with similar functions. Here the state officers named in the section referred to are not found but we have all of the corresponding federal officers—Judge, Commissioner and Clerk—specified in the section, with almost literally
the same titles.

We cannot escape the conviction,
therefore, that the act is both general and operative in this jurisdiction and it follows that plaintiff's motion must be overruled; but we do not see that any real hardship will result because, until defendant has filed his answer, the taking of his deposition would be hampered by the fact that the issues had not been joined and that it would be difficult to determine what evidence would be relevant and what should be excluded.

Defendant also files a motion
asking for "a bill of particulars stating the exact time and place and the persons to whom" certain statements therein alleged "were actually spoken and published." The rule applicable to that subject is thus stated in a work of authority:

"It is generally held that defendant is entitled to know definitely the time and place of the publication of the alleged slander or libel and the name of a party to whom publication was made, and if the complaint fails to show these particulars, a bill will be ordered."

Numerous authorities, both English and American, are cited in support of this statement and defendant's counsel presents additional citations to the same effect. Plain-tiff's counsel invokes the following passage from a leading text-book on the subject:

"When the means of the party who applies for the bill of particulars for ascertaining the information sought are equal to the means of the adverse party to furnish it, no
bill of particulars will be ordered."

But only three decisions are cited in support of this proposition, all of which are from nisi prius courts, and the only one here accessible was not a case of libel or slander, at all.
Of course, in other cases the statement last quoted is perfectly correct but in actions for defamation the rule first stated seems to prevail.
Defendant's motion for a more specific statement is accordingly sustained.

Defendant also asks for an order extending the time to plead so as to allow after the filing of the bill of particulars the full period of twenty days provided by rule after the date of service. But defendant has already had ten days and the averments of which the bill of particulars is asked form but a small part of the petition. It is believed, therefore, that by allowing ten days after the bill of particulars is filed defendant will have ample time. It is so ordered.

Books On France

Color Studies in Paris. By Arthur Symonds. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co. 1918. $3 (gold).	There are essays on Victor Hugo's use of words, on de Musset and George Sand, on Petrus Borel, and a great deal about that mysterious genius, Paul Verlaine. In short, here within the compass of seventeen short, very short, essays are the literary preoccupations of "les jeunes" in Paris from 1895 to 1905.
Women and the French Tradition. By Florence Leitch Ravanel. New York: The Macmillan Company, 1918. $1.50 (gold).	It is very difficult to deal patiently and politely with as pretentious and futile a book as Mrs. Ravanel's "Women and the French Tradition." There are essays on Arvede Barine, George Sand, Mme. de Staël, Mme. de Sevigne, Mme. de Lafayette, and the daughters of George Sand and Mesdames de Sevigne and de Staël. There is the opening essay on the "Eternal Feminine" and the closing essay on "Women of France." The subjects of the middle essays may be better known in better books or in the correspondence of the subjects themselves.
A Short History of France. By Mary Duclaux. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. 1918. $2.50 (gold).	Mrs. Ravanel has nothing new to add to their stories or to the appreciation of their characters. The first and the last essays are the only original contributions. There is nothing to hide in these, the wholesales and pathetic ignorance of the subject, but a little artificial fine-ladyism which is so out of place in the world of today; so almost blasphemously heartless and superficially affected in the face of the great world tragedy. This is no time in the world's history to sit patient with "feminine" or "effeminate."

It is always heartening to see a reprint of the work of so able a writer as Arthur Symonds. Far from being an old man, he represents a fading tradition; he belongs to the famous "eighties" and the unstable "nineties." His gifts are keen perception, delicate discernments, and elegant writing; things that in our present pursuit of fact and reality are likely to be lost altogether. The essays gathered together in this book date back to 1895 and 1896, and the latest one is a decade old. Yet the essays are as clear, and there will never be a time when those who care for literature, as a thing apart from mere writing, will not care to read of Montmartre and the Latin Quarter as it impressed Arthur Symonds in 1895, so sordidly picturesque with its crawling heights and its wonderful vision of the city from the Butte. The songs of the streets in 1895 by Aristide Bruant, their resignation, savagery, brutalities, and drunken gayeties are registered permanently in a little essay that will outlive the songs themselves, and too, in this volume one may come across Yvette Guilbert as she was years ago, with bright auburn hair, a trailing dress, long black gloves, naughtier than she is now, despite her innocent blue eyes. But already a supreme artist, she by her artistic ability to give a moral sanction to her most hazardous assumptions; with wide, comic gamut and the quiet, thrilling voice that could become a moan and make her audience shiver. Who that of recent years has heard her repeat the "Ouvre la porte" cry of the confined inmate would not like to read cheer riots, revolutions, civil wars, and rebellions generally—freedom has rarely if ever been a free gift to any one. She says the feminists of today demand that man and woman "plow the same field, lift an equal load, and tread with an equal stride." It is difficult to know what feminists she has met and read.

We have heard of none who demanded to be admitted to the first line trenches, but of many who have braved death as Red Cross nurses and even in work for the armies and the country. She quotes with scorn Olive Schreiner's plea, "Give us labor and the training for labor," never once realising that it meant the "wages of labor" and the right of self-support for which so many women are still tragically struggling and must continue to struggle. Her arguments are so silly, so childish, and beside the mark that it would hardly be worth while to mention the book if it were not also distasteful and as are all arguments unrelated to reality, untouched by the sense for truth. Her sweeping assertions, like the post boxes consecrate to shopgirls, schoolboys and housemaids, are of the very essence of the "feminine" she advocates. She tells us to read the letters from the trenches to the people at home and we will find that the English soldier confides in his father, friend, or wife, but only the Frenchman makes his intimate self-revelations to his mother. The best collection of letters from the front we have read were from an American boy to his mother. But that proves nothing! Nor does this fatuous, finicky little book prove anything!

Mrs. Duclaux, once the lovely English poet, A. Mary F. Robinson, has written a useful and valuable short history of France from the invasion of Caesar to the Battle of Waterloo. It was written, she says in her short foreword, for the class of cultivated and ignorant men and women to whom I belong myself, and is such a book as we wish might be written about Russia, Rumania, or Servia, or even the United States.

It is needless to say, remembering the author, that it is lucidly and beautifully written. It strives for and attains a sense of unity, a complete picture of a nation and its historic course, without over emphasis on any one stage of development or any one personality. The book has an excellent index and is a valuable and useful addition to any private library.

AMY LOWELL

Amy Lowell: A Critical Appreciation. By W. Bryher. London: Eyre and Spottiswoode. Price, half a crown.

The sure craftsmanship and the self-conscious intention of noting only the excellence of Miss Amy Lowell's poems leave the reader of Mr. W. Bryher's brochure, "Amy Lowell: A Critical Appreciation," rather fore-armed in his judgment. Miss Lowell is, indeed, as Mr. Bryher says, "essentially an explorer," and in his confession of the intolerant indifference of England toward American literature some will see the reason for his own rather distempered publication. Propaganda is a matter of some delicacy, and too much advertising is quite as bad as none at all; so, having been very thoroughly drenched in appreciations of the Boston poetess, Americans will be able to speculate with interest on the results of a new campaign of exploitation in England.

There can be no doubt of the merits of Miss Lowell's poetry, she has left no doubt as to her powers of controversy and debate; she knows how to use the old in the making of the new in a way that confounds most of her rather untutored contemporaries; she has had great advantages and she has the faculty of knowing when to use them. Mr. Bryher has very cleverly pointed out the most beautiful passages in her work and presented her with her very best how to his English brethren. It is a New England genius confronting the Thames, but Mr. Bryher's choice of a champion might be supplemented by the name of four or five other American poets.

THE WORLD PEACE

The World Peace and After. By Carl H. Grabo. New York: Alfred A. Knopf. $1 (gold).

The war, says Dr. Grabo, holds an immense danger and brings us a tremendous opportunity. The world cannot be the same at the end of the conflict. The danger is that it may become worse—more atrocious instead of less so. The opportunity is our chance to make it vastly better.

This is, briefly, the theme of "The World Peace and After." Upon the basis of the changes necessitated by the war and the sacrifices made for the ideal for which fought, Dr. Grabo bids us turn our attention now, not only to the specific "terms of peace," but to the problems of internal and international reconstruction. He sums it up:

"Never before has autocracy been so formidable to the progress of the world as that of Germany now, for never before has autocracy contrived to make its people so content. . . . We must exemplify in the organization and conduct of our peoples the possibilities of a democracy truly free yet efficient. . . . It may indeed be that democracy is incapable of choosing wise leaders, that it is unable to subject itself to self-imposed discipline, or to serve willingly under the guidance of men of wisdom. . . . But the only alternatives we know are autocracies which have failed and autocracies which, like that of Germany, have triumphed only at the cost of blood and servitude. Better that the human race should perish than that Germany's way prove the only way. And, meanwhile, we have the great hope that a democracy which is based both on economic and political freedom may ultimately solve its problems. Such a democracy has never existed on a scale sufficiently large or amid a world sufficiently hospitable to it to permit its survival. Communistic colonies have proved little more the existence of an unquenchable human desire for a better way of life. If the world is to become a finer and freer habitation for men, some experiment in world-wide socialism, communism—call it what you like, government in which all participate equally for the equal good of all—must be attempted. And this is a fitting moment in the world's history in which to inaugurate the attempt."

Concerning the democracy of his own country, Dr. Grabo is a bit pessimistic. Admitting the existence of fine ideals in America, paying tribute to the leadership of President Wilson, he finds the history of democracy on the whole the history of a dream rather than of an achievement. The changes which he urges are for the most part industrial; his ideal is socialistic; yet he is quick to deplore the fate of Russia under the Bolsheviks. His plea is that America—and the other nations as well—seek to combine much of the effective industrial achievement of Germany with that better fulfillment of the democratic ideal. But the country from which we can learn most, he says—and he explains why—is England.

Toward the end of his book Dr. Grabo asks his readers' indulgence for repeating "truths which the thinker and social worker have dimmed into the unheeding ears of the world for half a century." Certainly there are few details of social reorganization into which he does not, in some measure, go. His "excuse for repeating them here," he says, is that

"Their relation to home and to that international democracy upon which the world plans its faith and hope of survival is not clear to every one, nor the peculiar necessity of seeing that relationship at this particular moment realised. A new idealism is being generated by the world war, an idealism which for the moment outweighs human selfishness. Men are giving their lives and means to the service of their country. Out of the stress and necessity of the war a new machinery fitted to the establishment of a new social order is coming into being. To make use of this idealism and machinery is our opportunity and duty as we endeavor to establish a better relationship among the nations and destroy the evils of autocracy."

It is certain that the war will produce a radical change in the construction schemes of the British Navy—after the Allies have dictated the construction policy of the leading shipbuilding experts. The great advantage of big ships, which a single torpedo might render hors de combat and a couple send to the bottom. The upkeep of huge battleships and cruisers is enormous, and it is not from their initial cost. The tendency would seem to be smaller battleships with fewer guns of greater weight and range. Range will bulk largely in the coming ideal of the fleet commander. In the present war our ships came into action with the German ships at ranges undreamt of a few years ago. The small ship with the big guns will have a great advantage in getting against a big ship with more, but less powerful guns. Protection may undergo a radical change, for if the war has proved anything it has proved that the ship's best armor is her own gun fire.

The Japanese papers are devoting considerable space to the publication of views of Japanese publicists regarding the peace question. Following is the gist of opinion expressed by Dr. Kambe, professor at the Imperial University at Kyoto, as quoted by the Osaka Asahi:

"The destruction of German militarism for which the Allies are striving may probably become an accomplished fact but whether this would mean the sweeping away of militarism from the face of the earth will be a debatable point. The war has expanded the military strength of Great Britain and America to an extraordinary extent and if this means the rise of militarism in these countries the destruction of Prussian militarism can hardly be said as guarantee of the peace of the world."

"From the Japanese standpoint it will be imperative that the naval and military strength of Great Britain and America should revert at least to the condition as that which existed before the war and so it will be necessary for Japan to bring forward this question at the forthcoming peace conference. Japan will profit by the reduction of armament as it will enable her to put a check to the growing ascendancy of the military clique and much of what is now spent on the unproductive armament may be used for the development of the economic interests of the country.

for the next generation, they must set their house in order. The mediators will also realise that an arrangement which may come under review at the Peace Conference will have to follow lines which promise a just and lasting settlement. The prospect of peace in Europe will exercise a real influence for good on the negotiations in China. The step coincides with a change of government in Japan and it obviously indicates a change in policy, though observers who have watched the coming and going of Japanese Cabinets will not over-emphasise the connection between change of policy and change of men. Japan's policy in China has not been easy to follow.

Makers Of Siberia

Two of the makers of Siberia are commemorated in the town of Habarovsk, by occupying which the Japanese have gained control of a long stretch of river and railroad communication. It was founded just two years ago by General Mouraviev (also founder of Vladivostok), and named by him after the Cossack chief Khabarov, who, in the 17th century, was the first to penetrate into the vast solitudes of Eastern Siberia. Mouravieff's memory is perpetuated by a great bronze statue dominating the highest point in Habarovsk.

Castlefield Again Wins Champions In Great Finish

Noble Vekran Takes Premier Event For Fifth Time,
Wh Castlewood Outdistanced

Castlefield, Mr. Henry Morris' great chestnut, with Mr. R. F. Stewart up, romped away with the fifth victory in the Champion Sweepstakes in as many years when the pony took the big event of the Autumn meeting of the Shanghai Race Club yesterday from the favorite Castlewood by some 20 lengths. The track, inches deep in mud, was made for Castlefield, the pony's short strides eating up the distance. Seldom has such a finish been in the Champions.

Castlewood, picked to win by close followers of racing, despite the miserable weather conditions, took the lead after the first turn and, running easily, held the rails to the straight. Silver Streak trailed Castlewood on the outside with Night Hawk and Castlefield trailing within striking distance. All the other starters were bunched with the leaders with the exception of Triumph.

Castlewood looked like the winner as the pony hit the straight on the rail. Mr. Frank R. Vida, on the pony figured to cop, started his spurt and then Castlefield shot. Castlewood and Silver Streak were left far behind and Castlefield gained with every leap. The distance between Castlefield and the others lengthened as the champion tore by the stands and when the wire was reached Castlewood was at least 20 lengths behind the winner. Silver Streak was four lengths behind Castlewood.

Itain Makes Bad Track
The rain which started early yesterday morning and continued throughout the day made one of the worst tracks in recent years but the best possible course for Castlefield. The mud and pulled one of the most impressive victories and the most decisive win for years.

Yesterday's victory was the fifth since 1913. Castlefield won in the Spring of 1913, the Autumn of 1914, the Autumn of 1915 and the Spring of 1917 and finished second in the Champions at the Autumn meeting, 1914, and again last Spring.

Nine ponies started. Castlefield, Castlewood and Silver Streak, the placed ponies; and Night Hawk, Beaconsfield, The Oriole, Sir Lamerock, Black Jester and Triumph. The Oriole, second favorite in the Race Club selling sweep Tuesday night, did not figure in the running and Triumph was talked off at the half-way mark. Night Hawk was hooked to show better in the mud and Mr. John Johnstone rode the pony in preference to Silver Streak.

Two Good-Sized Dividends
There were but two sizeable dividends, Leonfield paying the biggest, $76.60 in the Jockey Cup event. Mr. Law coming through with a win by a head over Possum and Lecapen. There were 53 tickets on Leonfield. The pony paid $24.80 to place. Salamander paid $54.70 for second place in the first race beating The Swallow. The race went to Mr. Ezra on Triumph. It was the third day that Mr. Ezra rode the pony in the first race, Triumph falling down Monday and Tuesday and allowing dark horses to win.

Ironsand pulled the third win in as many days, taking the Grand Stand Stakes with Highflyer and Spotted-sand in the other two money positions. Ironsand won by a neck, Mr. Burkhill doing some tall riding in the stretch. Standard Dahlia won the Parl-mutuel Cup, Winsome Dahlia and The Capercalzie finishing second and third.

Mr. Heard rode Grey Goose to victory over Merrydand and Wild Night in the Consolation Cup race; Doughboy won the Sub-Griffin's event from White Bay and Pegaway, the last named losing second place by a neck, and Nigger Minstrel won the Nil Desperandum Cup. Greysand and Rochester were second and third in the race.

The Manchu Stakes went to Highflyer; Black Jack and Kennebec following the pony home.

Mr. Frank Vida, riding Mr. Sutterle's ponies, made four firsts, four seconds and a third in the three days' racing and Mr. Heard had the next best record with four firsts and three thirds.

DO ONE THING PROPERLY

A Hint Regarding Work and Health

The people who often succeed in life are not those versatile souls who can turn their hands to anything—Jack of all trades, master of none—but those who devote themselves to doing one thing only and doing it well. So it is with business. Not many people get rich by turning a sewing-machine which will make any thing you like; but fortunes are made by an automatic machine that turns out just one little bolt or screw all day long.

In medicine that which does the most good is the one which does one thing only, and does it well—that is, Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people, which make good, rich, plentiful red blood, and nothing else. All the good effects which have made Dr. Williams' pink pills famous result from their wonderful power of blood-making. The firm step, steady nerves, hearty appetite, improved brain-power, bronchial digestion, firm, red lips, and clear eye, that are conspicuous when Dr. Williams' pink pills are taken—all come from the rich, red blood that they make.

If you are ailing or losing energy you will do well to obtain Dr. Williams' pink pills now. Any dealer can supply you, or send direct, one bottle for $1.50, six for $8.00, post free, by the China office of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Bechoom Road, Shanghai.

How and why Dr. Williams' pink pills achieve wonderful results is explained in a free book, "The Blood and Its Work," for which you should send a postcard to the above address.

Ominous Rumor In Peking Of Huge Japanese Loan

Reported Security Would Represent Practically All Of China's Valuable Assets

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, November 7.—Two sets of attempted loan transactions here are engaging attention. On the one hand, rumors have been put out for a huge loan from European or American groups, the proceeds to be used for reconstruction purposes; and on the other hand there are rumors, which at present cannot be definitely known to be more than rumors, with many elements of circumstantial confirmation, giving at least the element of possibility.

It is understood that quite unofficially feelers have been put out by persons not actually in the Government, but in very close and confidential touch with it, to ascertain whether it would be possible to get a huge loan, a hundred million sterling is talked about, but this is probably intended to be a mere bargaining figure for fifty millions, from the Consortium banks and America. The tentative enquiries have met with a very cold reception. The enquirers have been told that such a loan is an impossibility in the present state of China, and the fact that the legations concerned refused a week ago to release surplus Customs funds is a sufficiently pointed comment on the present state of affairs to those who can see beneath the surface.

The respectable foreign lenders are not going to lend so long as China remains divided against herself. Moreover, for a big loan such as that, some important points must first be cleared up. No money lender even would advance money to a client whose financial position was not more or less fully known to him, and if he knew that the client had been borrowing very recklessly elsewhere, he would insist on knowing the full extent of those liabilities before he advanced a cash. This is the attitude of the respectable foreign bankers. Before they will consider any loan to China, the full extent of China's recent indebtedness, the assets pledged for it, and an accounting for the money so obtained will be required, and it is unlikely that those who have contracted the indebtedness, not a cash of which is legal until Parliament has approved of it, will reveal the truth, they will leave that unpleasant task to their successors.

It is partly because of this reluctance to make a full revelation of present liabilities that while one group has been quite unofficially approaching the Consortium bankers another group, openly and unashamedly, the Tsao Ju-lin group, has been negotiating with the usual Japanese financiers for a big loan, a thousand million yen or dollars is mentioned. The idea evidently is to get this loan through if possible before the loan with the European and American bankers, and then, the commissions having been pocketed, the whole Tsao Ju-lin group would drop out of politics, for there could be no hope afterwards of getting anything substantial in the way of pickings. It is no use trying to get this loan through after a loan with the other foreign bankers, for they would insist on knowing too much.

The security offered for the Japanese loan amounts practically to the whole of China's available assets. Four principal items are mentioned: land tax, litan, Customs revenue and Salt Gabelle. The land tax still remains untouched as a payable asset, but there is an understanding, unwritten but only to be defied by the Chinese Government at its extreme peril, that it shall not be pledged as security for any foreign loan except with the full consent and approval of the Consortium banking group, or rather their legations. This would probably not deter those Chinese who are trying to put the present transaction through, but it may have some weight with the Japanese, though that is doubtful. In any case, there would be very serious resentment in many quarters if any such hypothecation were made. However, if it were made, the objectors would either have to see it stand, or effect an adjustment for some other security. The loan could hardly be set aside altogether simply on this point.

As to litan, there is some foreign loan secured on that already, but the Foreign Powers do not want to see such security extended as they do not wish to multiply reasons why litan should not be abolished, as it was agreed sixteen years ago it should be abolished, and as it may be abolished after the new tariff has been established if there are not too many things secured on it. Here, again, any loan secured on litan would, if litan were abolished, simply have its security changed; the loan would remain.

Any loan secured on the Salt Administration or the Customs revenue would necessarily be of the nature of a second mortgage, and second mortgages are proverbially expensive. The Salt Gabelle, as re-organized by Sir Richard Dane, can already support a much greater weight of loan than it is doing, and as the re-organization becomes more and more effective the supportable weight will increase. So that even a second mortgage is a quite sound thing.

The most interesting suggestion is that the new loan should be a second mortgage on the Maritime Customs, because it is actually being pointed out to the Japanese creditors, potential creditors with respect to this loan of course, that, as many of the Foreign Powers have temporarily suspended their claims on this revenue and as it is quite likely that they will actively forego these claims eventually, the Customs revenue will be shortly a great deal better security than it is at present. It is suggested, though surely this cannot be true, that the Japanese creditors are being urged to use all their influence in Japan to get the Japanese Government to waive its Boxer Indemnity claims unconditionally, thereby making the security the better for new creditors.

Whatever may be the amount of truth in these reports, and they are so persistent that one is obliged to take note of them, there can be no question that General Hsu Shu-cheng, who has been working hard in glove with Mr. Tsao Ju-lin, has gone to Japan, and nobody believes that he has simply gone to be present at maneuvers.

BRITISH WAR FILMS SEEN WITH INTEREST

Shown Before Civil Governor Of Kiangsi And Other Officials
In Nanchang

China Press Correspondence
Nanchang, November 7.—The British war films created a sensation last night when they were officially shown for the first time before a selected group of officials and gentlemen at the local Y.M.C.A. The Civil Governor, with four of his under officials, was in attendance. Among the military were the acting governor and the heads of several departments. The president of the Chamber of Commerce together with a number of local gentlemen represented the business men of the city.

A most enthusiastic response was given when the pictures of the British Naval Air fighters were flashed on the screen. The Battle of Arras also brought forth many comments. The views of the Chinese Labor Corps in France, which were exceptionally clear, helped to show that China has a part in the Great War. During the intermissions military music was played by the police band.

The war films are enlightening the more conservative element in the city. Nanchang is not a progressive place. A few weeks ago when a British gunboat arrived to pay a friendly visit the officers were not received by the Military Governor. The sailors who went ashore were carefully watched throughout their stay in the city. It is hoped that the motion pictures will have the effect of showing that Nanchang, although a conservative city, is in reality linked up with the world movements of today.

The opportunity of presenting the films was made possible through the activities of the Hankow committee of the British War Information Society of which Mr. W. R. Robjohn is chairman. The complete equipment, including a Pathe projector, gas engine, and dynamo, was shipped to Nanchang several days ago from Hankow. Two expert operators are in charge.

SOOCHOW NOTES

China Press Correspondence

Soochow, November 9.—The regular monthly meeting of the Soochow Missionary Association was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. P. C. DuBois on last Thursday afternoon. The paper for the day was read by Mr. W. W. Brockman after a delicious tea had been served by the hostess. Mr. Brockman spoke of several of the leading figures in political life today, confining himself chiefly to the President of China, and the retiring President and one or two others who are closely associated with the present government.

The drive for the Allied war relief funds will soon begin in Soochow also, as it has in Shanghai. The organization for this has been completed and active work will begin Monday. The amount assigned to Soochow, will, it is hoped, be easily raised.

The Southern Methodist annual conference will begin its session in Soochow on the morning of Wednesday, the 13th. Bishop McMurrah, the newly elected bishop who is to make his residence in China for four years, will be present and preside. He is expected to arrive on Monday night from Korea where he has been holding a conference there with the Southern Methodists. Bishop McMurrah will stay here a short while and then return to America and bring his family out with him.

Foch Orders Armies To Cease Advancing

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, November 11.—By wireless. A French official message announces that Marshal Foch has telegraphed to the Commanders-in-Chief of the Allied troops that they will not, until further orders, go beyond the line they reached at 11 a.m. on November 11.

London, November 11.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports this morning: Shortly before dawn this morning the Canadians of the 1st Army, under General Horne, captured Mons.

Paris, November 10.—The official communiqué issued this evening reports: Pursuing the enemy rearwards, who attempted to make a strong resistance at certain points, particularly in the center and on the right, we advanced considerably on the whole front.

North of the Oise we captured Eppe-Sauvage, seventeen kilometers east of Avesnes. We passed Baillevre and Sallies in Belgium and reached farther east the northern outskirts of Signy forest, notwithstanding the increased German resistance. On our right the Italians captured Tremblais.

West of the Meuse we are 2½ kilometers north of Charleville. East of Mezieres the Germans violently but fruitlessly counter-attacked in the region of Donchery. We held our ground on the northern bank of the Meuse. Our booty is increasing continuously and includes parks of automobiles and numerous lorries.

Berlin Issues Rules For War Prisoners

(French Wireless)

Koukaza, November 11.—Picked up from Nauen.

Berlin, November 11.—The Committee of Action has issued the following notice to prisoners of war, their guards and employers: (1) Prisoners of war shall remain at their place of work.

(2) Prisoners of war shall receive from Monday, November 11, the wages paid to free German workmen.

(3) They are obliged to work as before. Whoever does not work has no claim to be fed.

(4) Employers shall be obliged as before to keep the contracts they have made.

(5) The guards over prisoners of war shall continue armed and shall maintain order among prisoners of war with the same means as before.

(6) After the close of work prisoners of war shall remain in their shelters.

News Brevities

For seeking to profit by the rush of purchasers of Allied flags last Tuesday a Chinese employee of Whiteaway, Laidlaw and Co. was given a sentence of 9 months' imprisonment by the Mixed Court yesterday. The employee had sold a bill of flags amounting to $6.50 to a foreigner, giving him a receipt for the cash, but the duplicate receipt, kept by the store, only showed $1 received. A foreigner connected with the store happened to notice that the clerk had a bit of cardboard underneath the carbon sheet in his receipt book and investigated.

Northern papers recorded the marriage of Mr. J. E. C. Davy of the Tientsin office of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation and Mrs. Harry Stewart last Saturday at All Saints' Church, Tientsin. The Rev. S. G. Teakle officiated. Mr. W. M. Weston acted as best man and the little daughter of the bride was bridesmaid. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Korea and Japan.

The death took place November 8 of Mr. Paul Marie Felix Domballe, a well known Kobe resident. Mr. Domballe died at the age of 69 of pneumonia. The deceased participated in the Franco-German war and came to the Far East as an assistant of the medical staff of the French cruiser Duplex. He was discharged from the naval service in 1872 and then started a business of his own in Yokohama and Kobe.

Plans were formulated at a meeting of the committee of the American Song Service yesterday to hold a service appropriate to these historic days Sunday afternoon at 4:30 at the Palace Hotel. All Americans are urged to attend and Allied friends are all welcome. In view of the limited time, no individual invitations will be sent out. Details of the program will be announced later.

The temporary service of Mrs. P. E. H. Walter, assistant mistress in the Thomas Hanbury School for Boys, terminated on October 21, according to the Municipal Gazette.

Dr. Arthur H. Smith's condition, according to latest reports from Peking, is still dangerous, although were it not for a complication of indigestion he would be considered better.

U.S. CUTS WAR RISK RATE

(American Wireless To Reuter)

Washington, November 12.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo today announced that the war risk insurance rate on hulls, cargo and seamen's lives would be reduced 75 percent.

Obituary

Mrs. Horace Hanbury

The death occurred yesterday at her home at 671 Great Western Road of Mrs. Horace Hanbury, wife of Mr. H. Hanbury of Probat, Hanbury and Co. and daughter of Lady Louter, formerly of Shanghai.

Mrs. D. C. Jansen

A shock of sincere regret was experienced by a large part of the foreign community of Shanghai yesterday with the announcement of the death of Mrs. D. C. Jansen, one of the Settlement's oldest and best known residents, who passed away at her home at 2 Jessfield Road.

Mrs. Jansen was the widow of the late Mr. D. C. Jansen, first proprietor of the Astor House Hotel and a very prominent Mason here. She was in her 76th year and had come to Shanghai more than 30 years ago from America. She had been an invalid for a number of years. Her circle of friends in Shanghai and other cities in China was a wide one and she was beloved by all who knew her.

Mrs. Jansen leaves a son and five daughters. The son, Mr. Clinton Jansen, is located in Denver, Colorado, one daughter, Mrs. Wallen, is in Bergen, Norway, and two married and two unmarried daughters reside in Shanghai. They are Mrs. H. J. Everall, who is at present in Canada, Mrs. Hide and the Misses Mabel and Ellen Jansen, all of whom are very well known here.

The funeral will take place at 4:30 p.m. today in the Palsenjaio Cemetery, where Mrs. Jansen's husband is buried, and all friends are invited. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

Mr. Reginald Grundy

The funeral of Mr. Reginald Grundy, who was one of Shanghai's popular residents and a keen Masonic worker, will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Bubbling Well Cemetery. All friends and brethren are invited to attend. The deceased was a member of the Shanghai Club. He first joined the office of Messrs. Holliday, Wise and Co. of Manchester in 1898 and came to Shanghai in 1902. In 1909 he severed connections with the firm and became the agent of Messrs. Jaffe and Sons of Manchester and Messrs. Everett, Heany and Co., Inc. of New York. He is survived by the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Blix.

First Indoor Concert Held Next Sunday

The first concert of the season at the Town Hall by the Municipal Band will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Thereafter, dances will be held on Friday afternoons at 5:30 o'clock and concerts Sunday afternoons at 4:30 o'clock, with the exception of December 13, when the premises will be used for the Cambridge local examinations.

DIRECT MAIL TO U.S.

Siberian Forces Ask For Reading Matter

Books And Magazines Should Be Sent To U.S. Post Office Today

Shanghai has sent some forty bags of books and magazines through the U.S. Post Office to the men of the Allied expeditionary forces in Siberia and the call comes down for more. Postmaster Everett announces that a mail will be closed for Vladivostok on Friday and requests all who have magazines and books to spare to send them in today, or at the latest by 10 a.m. tomorrow, so that they may get to the boys in the North without delay. A 1-cent stamp should be affixed to each copy.

End Of War Causes Peace Panic In Peking

Fear Of Foreign Intervention Puts Fright Into Vaillant Militarists

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Peking, November 12.—The Cabinet today decided to convene a peace conference at Nanking or Shanghai with a view to restoring peace as early as possible. The militarists, flabbergasted by the cessation of the war, appear to be incapable of connected thought and, being obsessed by the fear that the European Peace Conference will find China unprepared to participate, are not likely to offer further obstruction. The situation is very favorable for the south to secure an equitable agreement.
